These are just a few of the words that come to mind when thinking of the last two years. For the world, it was the culmination of years of advocacy efforts for human rights-based sustainable development into Agenda 2030, with 17 Sustainable Development Goals and 169 targets.

For APA, it was a time to revitalize and recoalesce our mandate in alignment with this new 15 year global development agenda. An ambitious organizational effectiveness review process was completed in 2015, resulting in a new vision and membership strategy for the network, which was unrolled in 2016.

Our new mission is to mobilize civil society advocacy across the region to hold governments and other stakeholders accountable for their obligations and commitments to realize the sexual and reproductive health and rights of all persons in Asia and the Pacific.

APA opened membership to the entire region of Asia and the Pacific and is excited to be seeking new civil society members that envision a world where the SRHR of all people are fulfilled. In 2016, we were happy to welcome several new members to the alliance – from Australia, Pakistan, and Thailand. We look forward to continuing to grow in 2017.

APA moves into this coming year with a renewed focus on ensuring the accountability of governments and other stakeholders for SRHR commitments, as the regional voice for SRHR accountability in Asia Pacific.

We wish to thank all of our members and partners for their energy and contributions to the network over the past two years. In particular, we would like to thank the donors, advocates and other stakeholders who contributed to APA’s organizational effectiveness review, and to former Executive Director Kabir Singh for his leadership during the second phase of the project.

Finally, we would like to extend a very special thanks to the Planned Parenthood Association of Thailand (PPAT), for their continued support of the APA Coordinating Office in Bangkok.

OUR VISION

Sexual and reproductive health and rights of all persons in the Asia Pacific region are respected, protected and fulfilled.
ABOUT APA

APA is a regional voice to strengthen accountability of governments and other stakeholders at all levels to sexual and reproductive health and rights (SRHR) commitments. APA advocates for the meaningful participation of civil society and encourages greater transparency.

APA’s Long-Term Goals

- To increase access of all persons in the Asia Pacific region, particularly from marginalized and underserved communities, to quality sexual and reproductive health and rights information, education and services.

- To create an enabling environment for accountability to obligations and commitments related to sexual and reproductive health and rights through engaging and advocating with governments and other stakeholders.

- To mobilize support and build commitment of diverse stakeholders engaged in sustainable development, to advance the sexual and reproductive health and rights of all persons.
REVITALIZING THE NETWORK: APA’S ORGANIZATIONAL REVIEW

In 2014, APA began an organizational effectiveness review process prompted by shifts in the global development and aid landscape. The goal of the review process was to position APA as a strong, diverse, organization that enables all people in Asia and Pacific to fully realize their right to sexual and reproductive health. The review was finalized in 2016, culminating in a new strategic vision for the network and an evolution of the membership structure.

APA has revitalized its mission and transitioned into an accountability advocate, as the regional voice for SRHR accountability in Asia Pacific. To achieve this, APA has opened up membership to organizations from all member states of the United Nations Economic and Social Commission for Asia and the Pacific (UN ESCAP), with a focus on developing countries. To help support the work of the alliance, a modest membership fee was also introduced; a tiered system based on the annual income of the organization.

The review process was led by organizational development consultants who incorporated a human-centred design approach that emphasized both needs and gaps and identified niches for APA going forward. A number of key stakeholders including donors and regional and national NGO leaders and activists were interviewed to provide strategic information and context. And the APA Steering Committee met a total of three times through the course of the process to focus its collective energies on charting this new strategic direction for APA.
APA’S MEMBERSHIP

United by their common commitment and contribution to the protection, promotion and fulfillment of SRHR for all people, APA members include national and regional civil society organizations from Asia Pacific, as well as global organizations and other stakeholders that work on a range of issues in the areas of advocacy, human rights, service delivery and public health research in the region.

In 2016, APA opened up our membership to the entire region of Asia and the Pacific, and new members joined us from Australia, Pakistan, and Thailand.

As we move forward, APA is enthusiastic about building our network and seeing it evolve. APA is especially seeking organizations from developing countries from throughout Asia and the Pacific, with a demonstrated interest in ensuring accountability for SRHR commitments through the international human rights system and policy review processes.

Interested in joining us? Find out more here.

In 2016, APA had 24 Full Members, and 4 Associate Members

FULL MEMBERS are local, national, regional organizations working on SRHR that are based in Asia Pacific, and align with APA Values. Full members are eligible to be voted onto APA’s Steering Committee.

APA has full members in the countries of Australia, India, Indonesia, Japan, Malaysia, New Zealand, Republic of Korea, Pakistan and Thailand.

ASSOCIATE MEMBERS are global organizations, individuals, or private sector organizations with a demonstrated interest in SRHR in Asia Pacific, and that align with APA Values. Supporting members are eligible to be invited onto APA’s Steering Committee.
OUR ADVOCACY WORK

APA advocates at regional, global, and national level to ensure accountability and increase commitments to SRHR, to mobilize collaborative action, and encourage civil society participation. APA monitors review processes at each level including Agenda 2030, The International Conference on Population and Development Programme of Action, Universal Periodic Review and human rights treaty bodies for progress on SRHR commitments.
REGIONAL ADVOCACY

APA leverages its strategic location in Bangkok, Thailand to advocate with UN agencies, regional NGO networks, parliamentary groups and other stakeholders to create momentum for improved policy and law, and increased transparency and accountability.

Asia-Pacific Intergovernmental Meeting on HIV and AIDS

The Asia-Pacific Intergovernmental Meeting on HIV and AIDS took place on 28-30 January 2015 at ESCAP, to assess national progress and exchange multi-sectoral experiences in meeting the commitments contained in the 2011 Political Declaration on HIV and AIDS.

APA was a member of the Civil Society Steering Committee for the preparatory Civil Society (CS) Forum and the Intergovernmental Meeting. APA led the cross-constituency drafting team for the civil society statements that were read at the Intergovernmental Meeting, and ensured that accountability and SRHR were highlighted.
At the “My Body, My Rights” side event, the voices of key populations shared the negative impacts that stigma, discrimination and punitive legal environments have on their health status. Organized by APA and International Planned Parenthood Federation South Asia Region (IPPF SARO) on 28 January, in cooperation with Asia Pacific Transgender Network (APTN) and the Asia Pacific Coalition on Male Sexual Health (APCOM), the session explored why the laws, policies and practices that criminalize adult consensual sexual behavior and discriminate on the basis of behavior and identity must be eliminated.

Asia-Pacific Forum on Sustainable Development

“Strengthening integration, implementation and review for Sustainable Development in Asia and the Pacific” was the theme of the second session of the Asia-Pacific Forum on Sustainable Development (APFSD), which took place on 21-22 May 2015 at UN ESCAP. The APFSD provides regional input into the High Level Political Forum.

At the preparatory CS Forum, APA co-organized a session with ARROW, IPPF SARO and IPPF East and South East Asia and Oceania Region (ESEAOR), and Partnership on Maternal, Newborn and Child Health (PMNCH) on Gender, Sexuality and SRHR on 19 May, and the Thematic Working Group on Gender, Sexuality and SRHR was initiated as an outcome. It aims to increase awareness and coordinate the response of civil society organizations from various constituencies on the topic of gender, sexuality and SRHR through the Asia Pacific Regional Civil Society Engagement Mechanism (AP RCEM) at UN ESCAP. APA also ensured that accountability and SRHR were highlighted in the final statement.

“Regional priorities for the implementation of the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development in Asia and the Pacific” was the theme of the third session of the APFSD, which took place on 3-5 April 2016.

At the preparatory CS forum, APA was elected as co-coordinator of the Thematic Working Group on Gender, Sexuality and SRHR along with ARROW. The cross-constituency working group consists of representatives from the LGBTIQ, persons living with and affected by HIV, older groups, migrants, fisherfolks, persons with disabilities, NGO, women, and the children, youth and adolescents constituencies at the AP RCEM.

SDG Week at ESCAP

Also in 2016, APA was selected to participate in the SDG Week at UN ESCAP, and attended a meeting to Review the Regional SDG Report on 29 November, and the Asia Pacific Follow-up and Review process on 1-2 December. APA advocated for the inclusion of linkages on the ICPD review process with the review of the SDGs at the regional level, and for a robust regional review and follow-up process that includes scope for alternative reporting by civil society and inputs from the results of international human rights review processes, such as the Universal Periodic Review.
GLOBAL ADVOCACY

At the UN Summit in September 2015, the ambitious Agenda 2030 for Sustainable Development was adopted by Member States, with 17 new Sustainable Development Goals and 169 targets. Sexual and reproductive health was embedded in two targets, 3.7 and 5.6; with reproductive rights also included in the latter. One goal is devoted to gender equality and empowerment.

While ‘sexual rights’ are not directly included, aspects can be linked with other targets, such as:

- Target 4.7 (on education for human rights and gender equality) could encompass comprehensive sexuality education;
- Target 10.3 (on reduction of inequalities, including through law and policy reform) could be used to advance the rights of sex workers and LGBTI persons and others; and
- Target 16.1 (on reduction of violence and related deaths) could include the reduction of sexual and gender-based violence, including violence based on sexual orientation, gender identity and expression.

APA was part of a campaign with the Global SRHR Platform for Post2015 to ensure the inclusion of SRHR and other key concerns, such as young people and the human rights of women and girls in Agenda 2030. APA advocated at global intergovernmental negotiations on the Post-2015 Development Agenda at the UN in New York on:

- Sustainable Development Goals and Targets
- Means of Implementation and Global Partnership for Sustainable Development
- “Transforming our world: the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development” outcome document

4th Global Women Deliver Conference

APA was chosen to organize the South East Asia and the Pacific Caucus at Women Deliver 2016 in Copenhagen, Denmark, and supported by Path. The caucus, which took place on 19 May, aimed to ensure accountability for Agenda 2030 commitments related to sexual rights of women and young people. Over 75 participants, including international non-governmental organizations, community based organizations, and parliamentarians, strategized and discussed three main topics:

- sexual rights and young people;
- sexual orientation and gender identity and expression;
- access to safe abortion services.

And at the “Politics of Sexual Rights in the Context of Development” concurrent session organized and moderated by member Action Canada for Sexual Health and Rights, APA shared how the Agenda 2030 follow-up and review processes can deliver results for marginalized communities and advance sexual rights in Asia Pacific. Other speakers in the session were Kate Gilmore, Deputy High Commission for Human Rights, Office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Human Rights, and Anna Szczegielniak, Member of the Youth Coalition for Sexual and Reproductive Rights.
2016 EuroNGOs Conference

The 2016 EuroNGOs conference “SRHR in the 2030 Agenda: A Strong Start” took place from 4-5 October in Paris, France. APA was invited to speak in the “SRHR and Agenda 2030: Promoting Alliances and Networks” side session, hosted by BMZ and GIZ. APA shared the contributions of the network to the Post-2015 process and the successes for SRHR, as well as key actions for moving the agenda forward at the regional level in Asia Pacific.

14th International Dialogue on Population and Sustainable Development

APA was invited to the 14th International Dialogue on the theme “Accountability to advance sexual and reproductive health and rights: Delivering on commitments together” in Berlin, Germany from 10-11 November 2016. In a session titled “Reflections on existing regional and thematic accountability mechanisms for the achievement of SRHR related goals”, APA facilitated a rotating discussion on the Asia Pacific Forum on Sustainable Development as an accountability mechanism, the successes for SRHR advocates, and the way forward.
NATIONAL ADVOCACY

One of APA’s objectives is to work with members and partners in the Asia Pacific region to advocate for greater accountability of governments and stakeholders in the Asia Pacific region to SRHR commitments.

APA participates and collaborates in events organized by APA Members, such as:

Regional Consultation on Sexual and Reproductive Health Rights among Women Community Partners in Greater Mekong Sub-Region. Organized by APA member Raks Thai Foundation. Bangkok, Thailand, on 13 July 2015. The consultation was organized to provide a platform to share and discuss ideas, experiences, opportunities and obstacles in accessing SRHR among women living with HIV in Greater Mekong Sub-region. APA presented on the topic of locating SRHR within the SDGs and identification of key entry-points.

Civil Society Consultation on Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights related Sustainable Development Goals: The India Perspective, organized by Population Foundation of India on 23 July 2015. The meeting aims to connect a small, strategic group of civil society organizations and alliances to share knowledge and deepen understanding of the SDGs, as well as inter-linkages with ICPD.

PROJECT BRIEF: UNZIP THE LIPS

One of the focus points of APA’s advocacy is the inter-linkages between gender and HIV. APA engages with the UN Interagency Task Team (IATT) on Women, Girls, Gender Equality and HIV at UN ESCAP.

In 2015-2016 APA was proud host of the Unzip the Lips platform

Unzip the Lips is a platform of individuals and organizations working for the rights and meaningful participation of Key Affected Women and Girls (KAWG) in the context of HIV and its intersections with gender issues in Asia-Pacific. Unzip defines KAWGs as women and girls most at risk of, and most affected by, HIV. They include: women and girls living with HIV, female sex workers, female drug users, transgender people, mobile and migrant women, women prisoners, women and girls with disabilities, women in sero-discordant relationships, female partners of men who engage in behaviors that put them at higher risk of HIV infection.
In 2015, Unzip the Lips members participated in the Asia-Pacific Intergovernmental Meeting on HIV and AIDS. Unzip the Lips, in cooperation with United Nations Development Programme (UNDP) and the IATT on HIV and Gender, organized a high-level side-event “Keeping the Focus on Key Affected Women and Girls” on 30 January. The session was an interactive dialogue between community network advocates with intergovernmental delegates, to highlight violations of human rights in health care settings, and gender-based violence among other issues.

In 2016, Unzip the Lips organized an Advocacy Workshop and Strategic Meeting from 21-24 March in Bangkok. Workshop participants prioritized key entry-points for key affected women and girls KAWG in Agenda 2030 and the new Sustainable Development Goals, and developed targeted messages. The video “Nothing for Us, Without Us” featuring Unzip Members was produced as an outcome of the meeting, as an advocacy tool on engaging with the SDGs. Watch the video here.

At the Strategic Meeting, results from a comprehensive review of the Unzip the Lips platform were shared, including good practices and challenges of UNZIP governance structure, operational design and decision making processes.

During the two year period of 2015-2016, a series of thematic briefs on HIV and SRHR of key affected women and girls “Unzipping the Policies for Key Affected Women and Girls”, “Unzipping CEDAW”, “Unzipping UPR”, and Unzipping the SDGs” were developed and released.

Unzip also launched a newsletter to share updates on the activities of members, and share advocacy tools and resources. Three newsletters were circulated in the reporting period.
WORK OF OUR MEMBERS: APA ADVOCACY GRANTS

APA provides grants to member organizations and their partner civil society organizations to advocate to donors and emerging donors for increased political commitment and resources for SRHR and the broader development agenda.

The 11th cycle, ‘Country Action in Asia and Pacific for SRHR in the Post-2015 Framework’ aimed to strengthen the collective global agenda by working at national and regional levels to ensure SRHR targets and indicators are included in the post-2015 framework and governments take immediate steps to adopt these in national frameworks when the new SDGs are announced. The program focused on advancing SRHR in the post-2015 framework, and ensuring that quality, equality and accountability are embedded.

The recipients of the 11th cycle of the APA Advocacy Grants Program were: Africa Japan Forum; Family Planning New Zealand; Raks Thai Foundation. The grant period ran from 1 March 2015 – 30 March 2016.

An Independent Review Panel (IRP) was established to review and assess the grant proposals based on set criteria. APA wishes to sincerely thank Elisha Dunn-Georgiou, Vice President of Programs, PAI; Katherine McDonald, Member of the Board, ACHSR; and Dr Srinivas Tata, Chief of the Social Policy and Population Section, Social Development Division, UN Economic and Social Commission for Asia Pacific for serving on the IRP.

Bringing the Voice of Japanese and Asia Pacific Civil Society to Post-2015 Africa Japan Forum

The Japanese political climate is experiencing a shift in the final stages of the global post-2015 development negotiations. To ensure Japan maintains support of SRHR, and with ambitious targets set for the SDGs, it is crucial to utilize key advocacy opportunities such as the Financing for Development Conference, Tokyo International Conference of Africa’s Development, and official dialogues between civil society and the government.

This project links global and regional Agenda 2030 advocacy movements to create joint opportunities to call on the region’s respective governments to increase support for SRHR. The project rallies local civil society, and links SRHR issues to the international agenda, locating it within critical issues such as Universal Health Coverage.
Voices from the Pacific

Family Planning New Zealand

The Sustainable Development Goals, finalized at the UN Special Summit on Sustainable Development, provide a new universal set of development goals, targets and indicators. This project aims to strengthen the capacity of Pacific CSOs to influence the SDG nationalization process, through the provision of country-specific advocacy tools, and support to ensure the effective implementation of advocacy plans.

At the regional and global levels, this project will increase awareness of the need and value of investing in SRHR by providing a voice to CSOs in the Pacific. It is essential that the two SRHR targets included in the SDGs receive appropriate prioritization and resourcing in national implementation plans.

Women Living with HIV and Migration in Greater Mekong Subregion: Platform for Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights for Post-2015

Raks Thai Foundation

Women’s voices on SRHR, gender and related development issues have been discussed on multiple occasions during the process of developing the Agenda 2030 sustainable development indicators. The specific needs and concerns of women and girls living with HIV in the Greater Mekong sub-region, however, have not been adequately addressed. They face barriers in accessing SRHR which is compounded by their status as migrants.

This project aims to vocalize the needs of women, girls, men and boys living with HIV in the Greater Mekong sub-region at the national, regional and international levels. The key participants of this project are women from networks of people living with HIV in the six countries of Cambodia, China, Laos, Myanmar, Thailand and Vietnam.
COMMUNICATIONS

Communication is at the heart of advocacy work. Together, the APA organizational website and social media tools such as Facebook and Twitter, function to strengthen cooperation, networking and advocacy of members and partners through the exchange of information and global, regional and national developments in SRHR.

A new APA Brochure was developed in 2016, to highlight the network’s new vision and mission, and to support APA’s new membership strategy. It has been disseminated both virtually through listserves, and in hardcopy at the various meetings that APA coordinating office participates in.

APA is also developing a new communications strategy. As online communication tools and social media have proven critical for keeping advocates and other stakeholders well-informed and up-to-date on current developments and trends, and 2017 will see APA continue the focus on our online and social media presence. However, in 2016 the external APA Update was discontinued, and APA introduced a quarterly membership newsletter which will be fully implemented in 2017.

In 2015 – 2016, APA’s organizational Facebook page ‘likes’ climbed to 2,280. APA tweets regularly from regional and international events, building on our 603 followers – follow us at @AsiaPacAlliance. And in late 2016, a new Instagram profile was created, @AsiaPacAlliance.

APA also produces evidence based resources to assist our members and partners in their advocacy work:

Advancing Sexual Rights Through the Sustainable Development Goals

A series of 7 national level policy briefs – for Fiji, Georgia, Indonesia, Pakistan, Papua New Guinea, Philippines, Turkey – were developed and released in 2016 to assist APA members and other advocates in using the SDGs to hold governments accountable to commitments they have made towards protecting and promoting sexual rights. Each policy brief covers an overview of key sexual rights issues within a country and compares them with commitments at the national, regional and international levels, and outlines opportunities for advocates to engage with governments and other stakeholders to strengthen accountability. Download the briefs here.
GOVERNANCE

APA is governed by an elected Steering Committee that meets to provide strategic guidance for APA. During the reporting period, SC members met twice, in May and September 2015.

Also in 2015 the second phase of the APA Organizational Effectiveness Project, with support from the David and Lucile Packard Foundation, was completed. Changes in the international aid environment prompted a review of the alliance, with a focus on its strategic positioning and organizational structure, and was overseen by the APA Steering Committee. Phase one was completed in 2014 and identified strategic direction for APA. Phase two focused on APA’s organizational structure, operational model and mandate.
